Hochschule Geisenheim University

Geisenheim is a town in the Rheingau-Taunus district of the Darmstadt administrative region in the state of Hesse, Germany, and is known as Weinstadt (“Wine Town”). Hochschule Geisenheim University was founded in 2013 as the result of a merger between the Geisenheim Research Institute and the Geisenheim faculty of Hochschule RheinMain. Our origins date back to October 1872. A comprehensive understanding of the entire value chain of special crops, including grapevines, fruits, vegetables and ornamental plants, is at the heart of our strategy. We are committed to researching the various production and processing methods of these crops, as well as related subjects such as food safety, food logistics, and the economics and marketing of wine and other beverages. Other key areas include cultural landscape development, urban open space design, landscape architecture, and conservation. The global issues of climate action and sustainability are also integral to all our degree programs and represent the cornerstone of our research.

Campus Map

A campus map and additional information are available here. On Monday, we will meet in room “Aula”.

Arrival

Frankfurt Airport (FRA) is about 55 km from Geisenheim. The regional train station is at Terminal 1 where you can buy tickets at the vending machines. Alternatively, you can download the app in advance.

If you want to travel by car, train or bus for environmental reasons, we are happy to answer any questions you may have about your travel plans.

Accommodation

As Geisenheim is a small town, there are not many places to stay. Therefore, we also recommend some nearby locations. You might not want to book accommodation in areas far from train stations (avoid Johannisberg, Stephanshausen, Marienthal, Rüdesheim-Aulhausen, Rüdesheim-Pressberg). The nearest major city is Wiesbaden (around half an hour by train).
