8TH INTERNATIONAL PHYLLOXERA SYMPOSIUM

With regard to the great success of the last conferences performed by Nathalie Ollat 2013 and Andy Walker in 2017, we are now planning to reissue the next international Phylloxera Symposium which is set to take place at the Geisenheim University Campus from June 25, to June 27, 2020.

We would like to invite everyone interested in the subjects as listed on the following information sheet. We are looking forward to a great participation, exciting presentations and lively discussions.

MAIN TOPICS

Actual phylloxera situation in viticultural regions worldwide

Current state of research on behavioural patterns of phylloxera

Genetical differentiation of phylloxera biotypes

New strategies for controlling measures of phylloxera infestation

Leaf gall formation on V. vinifera – a phenomenon relatable to climate change?

Breeding activities for the development of phylloxera resistant varieties and rootstocks

Rootstock breeding activities related to soil born pest and disease resistance
